Discover the joys of playing in a large ensemble

The purpose of this weekend is to allow all recorder players (except beginners), regardless of age, to join the group for a one-time large ensemble rehearsal, with the option to participate in our projects and concerts throughout the year afterward, or to try out the very large flutes in the family (contrabass in F, subgreatbass in C and sub-contrabass in F).

This sixth edition will introduce participants to new pieces, provide a deeper exploration of others, and offer the opportunity to experiment with new instrumental techniques through repertoires that are old, new, or traditional.

Our conductor: Christophe Formery

Christophe Formery is a concert performer (recorders and harpsichord), arranger, composer and Doctor of Musicology.

In 2014, he founded, together with the ADIAM67, France's first recorder orchestra, renamed Fiatabec in 2019. It is part of a larger organisation that goes by the same name.
